LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- nutribullet® is putting a spin on mealtime with its newest product launch in the brand's ongoing expansion across the kitchen, the nutribullet® 7-Cup Food Processor.

The nutribullet® Food Processor takes the hassle out of healthy eating and meal prep with blades and discs that efficiently perform a variety of functions and a 7-cup capacity work bowl that packs attachments inside for simple storage and easy clean up. In addition, the work bowl, blades, and discs are BPA-free and dishwasher-safe.

The nutribullet® Food Processor includes five blade attachments along with a recipe guide featuring over 20 unique and easy to follow recipes. The nutribullet® Food Processor's other features include:

- The ability to slice, shred, chop, spiralize, and knead, thanks to a variety of blades and discs.
- A powerful, 450-watt motor that can handle ingredients with ease.
- An easy-to-use interface that lets users toggle seamlessly between low-speed, high-speed, and pulse. Multiple speeds allows for less manual preparation and more control ensuring users achieve the consistency and texture they're looking for.
- A compact, dual-sized feed chute with a two-part pusher that creates an adjustable chute width, allowing for easier processing of smaller veggies and adding liquid ingredients while processing.

"The nutribullet® Food Processor expands on the usage of traditional food processors by including dynamic and exciting attachments that can help prepare a variety of healthy meals," said Justin Giouzepis, Chief Marketing Officer at nutribullet®. "This is a competitively priced, space-saving, and multifunctional processor for consumers who want easier at-home cooking and meal prep."

The nutribullet® 7-Cup Food Processor will retail for $119.99. Consumers can purchase the nutribullet® Food Processor now at nutribullet.com, Amazon.com, and their favorite retailer website.
